What is Mother Tongue Language

Mother Tongue Language (MTL) is offered in Singapore schools as a second language. It is a compulsory subject. There are 3 official MTLs:

- Chinese
- Malay
- Tamil

- Students of Chinese, Malay and Indian ethnicities will study their own MTLs.
- Non-Tamil speaking students of Indian ethnicity can apply to study Non-Tamil Indian Language (Bengali, Gujarati, Hindi, Punjabi or Urdu).
- These languages are conducted outside of school premises and hours. You may want to find out more information from the Board for the Teaching and Testing of South Asian Languages' website.

- Students registered with a double-barreled race will be assigned a MTL based on the first component of their double-barreled race. Those who wish to study a MTL based on the second component of their race may apply to do so through their schools.
- Students who are Eurasian or of other races, and whose mother tongue is not one of the official MTLs, can request to study any of the official MTLs through their schools, subject to approval.

How to help your child?

- If you are able to speak your Mother Tongue, try to speak with your child at home. As the child practices conversations, he or she repeats the new language structures in his or her mind.
- Otherwise, you may provide your child with a conducive environment for reading and watching programmes that are in Mother Tongue language.

- Monitor your child and ensure that he or she completes his or her homework and revises regularly.
- If possible, guide your child to do journal writing in Mother Tongue to practice writing skills.
